

QuickGrid Results – Guide

This guide has been produced to explain the basic features of QuickGrid Results and assist the user to view and understand the available information.

Requirements

The system is based on MS Excel so the user will require MS Office or a MS Excel Viewer to be able to open the workbook.

Using the System

The system has been designed to be user friendly and so is very intuitive to use. There are however a few points of interest that will be outlined below.

The results file will most likely be available on the web site in a zipped format to minimize the file size for web site storage and to minimise the download size for your convenience.

When you open the QGResults.xls file you will see tabs for each class at the bottom of the page.

Click on the class of your choice to review the results.

When viewing the results the event dates are shown at the top of the page. Not all events are included for the Club Championship points and so will not be included in the Total. Events that are included are coloured Green Event1 and those that are not included are coloured Red

Event2.

In the above example you can see that Event 2 (28/03/2010) is not included in the calculation for the Club Championship point total.

The results are sorted with the highest points to the top of the list but it is important to note that where equal total points are shown for one or more competitors the order on the list is not an indication of overall standing.

The Club should have a process for handling tied points for their Club Championship.

As an example there are two competitors on 41 points as shown below. Grant Ditchfield is shown higher on the list but this should not be read as Grant being higher in the Club Championship overall standing.

01373	Grant Ditchfield	DT	41
08021	Tyson Bryden	DT	41

The key reference used within the system is the licence number and so if a different licence number is used at any time then the results will be allocated accordingly. An example of where this may occur is the beginning of the season and the Tower Officials enter a "temporary" licence number such as 99999 for some reason. The results for that event would be transferred from the standard QuickGrid system to the Results System and points allocated to the licence number 99999. At subsequent events the official licence number is used and the results would then be allocated to the official licence number. If this did happen then the results can be easily allocated to the correct licence number.

From experience the competitors name is usually correct and so a quick scan of the results for duplicate names or unexpected licence numbers such as 00001 or 99999 will usually identify that a temporary licence number may have been used.

The results are exported directly from the QuickGrid computer system to the Results system and so be easily cross referenced with the Result and Points Sheet information for each event already available in pdf format on the web site.

If you have any questions in reference to the results then you should contact the Club Secretary so that the matter can be investigated further.
